New Business Enterprises—Good Year for the Man With the Hoe, and the Owner of Live Stock—Everybody Will Have Money

George Pusch, the butcher, who was in attendance at the recent convention of the Arizona Cattleman's association at Phoenix, has returned to Tucson. Speaking of the principal matters which came before the convention, he said: "What interested us the most, or what will when they are completed, will be the introduction of some bills in the legislature. One of these is designed to give the outside ranchers a chance to sell meat under certain conditions: For instance, when a man kills a beef, and perhaps has no use for more than half of it, he should be allowed to take the balance in and sell it, or dispose of it to a neighbor. That is the idea of the bill. Another is to have the taxes in connection with branded cattle collected in the future by the sheriffs, as it will put that matter on a more businesslike basis, in the judgment of the association."—Citizen.

There has just been authorized from the office of the surveyor general an extensive survey in the Mohave valley for which advertisement is being made. It will consist of forty-two standard miles, twenty-five meanders, thirteen Indian reservations, forty township exterior, 222 subdivisions, in all 342 miles.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED IN GRAHAM COUNTY

FROM THE ERA:

Wm. Whally is a man of action. Hardly had the flood subsided until he was at work on a new residence, and in ten days it was completed and he had moved in.

Mrs. E. J. Edwards will arrive from Phoenix tonight on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Gus Williams, who has been quite ill since the flood.

President James Colquhoun of the Arizona Copper company, and Alex Veiton, general manager of the company, accompanied by Mrs. Veiton, left Tuesday morning for California, where they will spend some weeks.

The Arizona Copper company is opening up a general merchandise store on Chase street in the building formerly occupied by S. J. Forbes. Adolph Schwartz, formerly in charge of the grocery department of the general store, will have charge of the business.

The new temporary bridge was completed across the Pinal Sunday afternoon and that night the train reached the depot. It was built by the bridge crew of the El Paso and Southwestern and was completed in a remarkably short time. As an evidence of appreciation of their services and energy the Arizona Copper company presented each man with a crisp ten dollar bill.

FROM THE GUARDIAN:

C. A. Brown, roadmaster of the El Paso and Southwestern, stationed at Douglas, is recuperating at Indian Hot Springs. Mr. Brown was formerly with the G. V. G. & N., at Globe.

Traveling Engineer Lewis passed through Safford yesterday on his way east to get a new locomotive for use on the Gila Valley, Globe & Northern railroad.

It is estimated that during the week that the G. V. G. & N., was tied up, that more than four hundred cars of freight were side-tracked along the Southern Pacific billed to go over this road.

Mrs. F. W. Westmeyer, of Los Angeles, is visiting her sister Mrs. Andrew C. Alexander, at Indian Hot Springs. Mrs. Westmeyer has just returned from a trip through the east and will visit her old home at Globe before returning to Los Angeles.

Newt Stratton left Saturday for Dallas, Texas, to attend the medical college at that place.

C. H. Edmonson of Globe, manager of the People's Supply company, spent the first of the week in the valley metropolis in the interest of his firm. Tuesday he shipped a car load of hogs and cattle to Globe for local consumption at that place.

FROM THE BULLETIN:

Cashier A. G. Smith is in Solomonville this week on banking business. He is just recovering from a protracted illness.

Mrs. I. E. Solomon returned Sunday from her prolonged visit in New York city, and was warmly welcomed by her many friends in Solomonville.

Reinaldo Michelena, the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Michelena, died on Wednesday morning. The funeral took place at 4:30 p.m. of the same day. The child had been sick for nearly a month with typhoid fever. Mr. and Mrs. Michelena have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement. This is the second child they have lost with typhoid fever in less than two months.

W. E. Back, better known as "Cyclone Bill," who went to Solomonville to appeal to the supervisors to appoint him a justice of the peace for Clifton, in place of having his request granted, was arrested for stealing a sixshooter. Although "Cyclone" protested that he had no intention of stealing the gun, the court was incredulous and stony hearted, and sentenced him to 100 days in jail, which he will have to serve.

PINAL COUNTY NEWS FROM ARIZONA BLADE

C. A. Worthen, of the firm of Gardner, Worthen & Goss, Tucson, was here this week and bought the Bobtail machinery sold by Sheriff Wells under execution, Wednesday.

The supreme court did not complete its labors this week, therefore Judge Doan did not come over to hear the contest in the matter of the treasurer-ship. The hearing has been postponed to February 6th.

The repairs on the Butte railroad bridge have been completed and the construction train now runs as far as the Ripley wash bridge, where three pile drivers have been put to work. It will not be long now till trains will be running into Kelvin on schedule time.

Bates Bros. have disposed of their interest in the Troy corral to C. C. Hayes, who will run it in connection with his Globe & Troy stage line. Troy will be sorry to lose Andy Bates as one of its citizens, but as he goes no farther than Kelvin, he will no doubt be a frequent visitor.

Dr. L. E. Wightman, of Globe, was in Troy last Monday, in consultation with Dr. Brown at the bedside of Mrs. George Henderson and Muri Armstrong, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Armstrong, both of whom are dangerously ill, but recovery is ultimately expected.

John T. Bates, the Dudleyville pioneer, was in Florence Thursday and Friday. He was caught on the opposite side of the river from his home during the late freshet and did not get home for twenty-one days. He states that the water came within a few hundred yards of Peter Winkelman's house and destroyed several miles of the Winkelman irrigating ditch. The farm houses of Tom Desmond and John Nixon were surrounded by the river flood and the former, which was a frame house, was turned over but not washed away. R. B. Bransman lost his house and ditches by the freshet, but the Riverside station was not washed out as reported.

COCHISE COUNTY BUDGET CULLED FROM EXCHANGES

FROM THE BISBEE REVIEW:

A good many cases of pneumonia are reported in the city by physicians. The latter say the season is now at hand for this trouble, and that too much care can not be taken in avoiding careless exposures. It is said that the number of cases now under treatment in the city is not as large as usual at this time of the year. Grip in acute form is going the rounds of the city.

There are forty-two prisoners held at the county jail at Tombstone. Over half of these are awaiting the next grand jury. Of this half nearly all were sent from Bisbee. With the exception of three the Bisbee prisoners are Mexicans. Included among the latter are the five villainous desperadoes who attacked the home of Robert McDonald, with the intent to murder and rob, and who later undoubtedly murdered Louie Maurer.

DOUGLAS INTERNATIONAL AMERICAN.

The gambling table has brought ruin to F. A. King, for some time Western Union operator at Benson. King is now under arrest in Los Angeles, charged with the embezzlement of $700 from the local office, in which he was a trusted and respected employee until his shortage was discovered. King jumped the town and was arrested as he stepped from the Overland at the Arcade depot in Los Angeles.

DOINGS IN PHOENIX AND THE SALT RIVER VALLEY

FROM THE REPUBLICAN:

The supreme court has taken a recess until March 14. Very little was done at the late session.

The forces engaged in constructing the government telephone from the Arizona canal head to Phoenix to connect with the line to Roosevelt, is making rapid progress and has now moved camp to within three or four miles from the city, or a point not far from the Perazza property, better known as the old half way house between here and Tempe.

Chairman W. S. Sturges and member J. J. Riggs, of the territorial live stock sanitary board, have resigned. Their action was not a surprise. It was known there had been a disagreement between the resigning members and Governor Brodie regarding the secretary of the board. After considerable pressure, Secretary Harrison resigned, and now Messrs. Sturges and Riggs have followed suit.

FROM THE MESA FREE PRESS:

Several days since the bonds voted in aid of the Tonto-Mesa road by the people of Mesa were sold to (or through the agency of) Dwight B. Heard. Owing to the fact that the bonds were comparatively small issue ($3500) it was difficult to place them to the best advantage on short notice. As a matter of fact, the money was all expended long before the bonds were disposed of.

Mesa voted bonds in aid of the Tonto road in good faith, paid her money when called upon to do so, and complied with every obligation she assumed. Tempe is playing the baby act. She voted bonds, but because no one will offer a premium, is trying to flunk payment. Tempe needs a more liberal minded town council.

ITEMS FROM PRESCOTT AND YAVAPAI COUNTY

FROM THE COURIER:

The Elks expect to open their opera house on the 20th of February.

Surveying for the extension of the Prescott & Mt. Union electric railway to Fort Whipple is in progress. It is stated that the road will be in operation to that point by April 1st.

FROM THE JOURNAL-MIRROR:

Final settlement and distribution was made yesterday in the probate court of the entire estate of the late H. J. Allen. The estate was distributed to Arabella Allen, widow of deceased, sole legatee under the will. It consisted of 320 acres of land in the Verde valley, at Peck's lake, together with the improvements, farming implements, household and kitchen furniture and personal effects of deceased, 4999 shares of stock in the Jerome Power company and an undivided one-fourth interest in the Squaw Peak mines. The total value of the estate is about $10,000 or $12,000, exclusive of the power stock and mines, which are of an uncertain and undeterminable value.

Major C. C. Walcutt, constructing quartermaster at Whipple, and W. O. Ayer, his engineer, are just now busy engaged in preparing for the letting of a mammoth contract consisting of seventeen buildings for the new post at Whipple. For this work there is an appropriation of $187,500 now available.

THE NEWS OF TUCSON AND OF PIMA COUNTY

The last building in the old wedge which has so long been an eyesore to Tucson, was removed last week and Congress street is now open to the river.

The re-organized humane society is after Chas. F. Hoff manager of the Tucson horse car line, with a sharp stick, for the alleged abuse of the company's horses. Dr. Shattuck, veterinarian, who examined the animals, found three of them entirely disabled and the balance of the stock had been so poorly fed as to be unfit for service. The matter was to be investigated further.

The city council will not meet until the first Monday in February. The anti-gambling ordinance goes into effect February 1st, and the city fathers want to see what the gamblers are going to do about it.—Post.

The Pima county representatives in the legislature are not unanimous for the bill introduced in the House repealing the laws licensing gambling and making that traffic a felony. N. W. Bernard, seated as joint councilman from Pima and Santa Cruz counties, does not favor the measure. The three republican members of the lower house from Pima county are unanimous in favor of the bill and have gone on record in the presence of many witnesses as favoring it. Those who are working for the passage of the bill still have hopes of gaining the support of Mr. Bernard, and a mammoth petition asking him to favor the bill is being circulated and will be forwarded to him. It already contains several hundred signatures. The gamblers have given up all hope of defeating the measure in the house and are confining their efforts to the council, as they have fewer men to work on there. It is said that a mammoth barrel will be turned loose in that body when the measure comes up there, and the honesty of the members will suffer a severe test.—Post.

SUFFICIENT PUNISHMENT

With a solemn mein and an air sedate, St. Peter stood guard at the golden gate. When up to the top of the golden stair Appeared a couple, and the married pair Applied for admission. They came and stood Before St. Peter, so great and good. In hopes the City of Peace to win, And asked St. Peter to let them in. The woman was tall and big and gaunt, Her corkscrew curls stood up rampant; The man was short, and thick, and stout, His stomach was built so it rounded out. His face was pleasant, and all the while He wore a kindly and genial smile. The coons in the distance the echoes woke, And the man kept still while the woman spoke: "Oh, thou who guardest the gate," said she, "We two come hither, beseeching thee To let us enter the heavenly land, And play our harps with the heavenly band. Of me, St. Peter, there is no doubt—There's nothing in heaven to bar me out, I've been to meetings three times a week, And almost always I'd rise and speak. I've told the sinners about the day When they'd repent their evil way: I've told my neighbors, I've told them all, About Adam and Eve and the primal fall: I've shown them what they'd have to do If they'd pass in with the chosen few; I've marked their path of duty clear—Laid out their plan for their whole career—I've talked and talked to 'em loud and long, For my lungs are good and my voice is strong. So, good St. Peter, you'll clearly see The gate of heaven is open to me; But my old man, I regret to say, Hasn't walked in exactly the narrow way—He smokes and he swears and grave faults he's got, And I don't know whether he'll pass or not. He never would pray with an earnest vim, Or go to revival, or join in a hymn. So I had to leave him in sorrow there While I, with the chosen, united in prayer. He ate what the pantry chanced to afford, While I, in my purity, sang to the Lord; And if cucumbers were all that he got, It's a chance if he merited them or not. But oh, St. Peter, I love him so! To the pleasures of heaven please let him go! I've done enough—a saint I've been, Won't that alone? Can't you let him in? By my grim gospel I know 'tis so. That the unrepentant must fry below; But isn't there some way you can see, That he may enter, who's dear to me? It's a narrow gospel by which I pray, But the chosen expect to find some way Of coaxing, or fooling, or bribing you So that their relations can amble through. And say, St. Peter, it seems to me This gate isn't kept as it ought to be. You ought to stand by that opening there, And never let down in that easy chair. And say, St. Peter, my sight is dimmed, But I don't like the way your whiskers are trimmed; They're cut too wide and outward toss. They'd look better narrower, cut straight across. So open, Peter, and we'll pass in!" St. Peter sat quiet and stroked his staff, But, spite of his office, he had to laugh; Then said, with a fiery gleam in his eye: "Who's tending this gateway—you or I?" And then he arose in his stature tall, And pressed a button against the wall, And said to the imp who answered the bell, "Escort this lady down to . . ."

The man stood still as a piece of stone. Sto. d sadly, gloomily there alone: A lifelong settled idea he had That he was good and that he was bad. He thought if the woman went down below, That he would certainly have to go—That if she went to the regions dim, There wasn't a ghost of a show for him. Slowly he turned, by habit bent, To follow wherever the woman went. St. Peter, standing on duty there, Observed that the top of his head was bare. He called the gentleman back and said: "Friend, how long have you been 'red'?" "Thirty years," (with a weary sigh), And then he thoughtfully added, "Why?" St. Peter was silent. With head bent down, He raised his hand and scratched his crown: Then, seeming a different thought to take, Slowly, half to himself he spoke: "Thirty years with that woman there? No wonder the man hasn't any hair! Swearing is wicked, smoke's not good. He smoked and he swore—I should think he would. Thirty years with that tongue so sharp: Ho! Angel Gabriel! Give him a harp! A jeweled harp with a golden string. Good sir, pass in where the angels sing. Gabriel, give him a seat alone, One with a cushion on—up near the throne. Call up some angels to play their best, Let him enjoy the music and rest. See that on finest ambrosia he feeds. He's had about all of the hell he needs: It isn't just hardly the thing to do. To roast him on earth and in future too." So they gave him a harp with golden strings And a glittering robe with a pair of wings. And he said, as he entered the Realm of May, "Well, this beats cucumbers, anyway." And so the Scriptures had come to pass: "The last shall be first and the first shall be last." —Unbranded.
